

CCCS Adjunct Faculty Proposed Pay Raise

Fall Semester, 2021

How does a percentage pay raise, phased in over five years, translate per course, per week, for CCCS adjunct faculty who teach 80% of all CCCS courses? CCCS average wage is $2,500 for teaching a college course. Their pay is so low they work other jobs, they receive no health-care benefits, and so the adjuncts struggle to live.

3%: $5/week = 1 latte

4%: $7/week = 1 deluxe burrito to go

5%: $8/week = 2 loaves of bread, not fancy

10%: $17/week = 1/2 a nice T-shirt, on sale

15%: $25/week = a half a tank of gas

20%: $33/week = one oil change

25%: $42/week = 1/3 a monthly health ins. bill

30%: $50 = one half of one snow tire

35%: $58/week = 1 leather shoe, on sale

40%: $67/week = the other shoe + tax

60%: $100/week = 1 week of groceries

100%: $167/week = few days rent on Denver apt.

140%: $233/week = 4 days of daycare, one toddler

150%: $250/week = 10% cost of one crown

180%: $300/week = 1/7 cost of a new laptop

200%: $333/week = equity w/ FT colleagues
